

KEITH FIGUEROA

Senior Director, Systems and Technology Group

As senior director of the systems and technology group at Intellectual Ventures (IV), Keith Figueroa oversees the organization's technology services and strategy. Keith's team supports digital operations across the company, and his responsibilities include overall budget and program management, application development, systems architecture and security, and technology infrastructure.

Keith has more than 30 years of experience helping businesses bridge the gap between strategic objectives, operations, and technology. He has worked in multiple function areas, including IT, finance, operations, software development, research and program management, as well as across diverse industries, including management consulting, aerospace, airline, wireless telecom, software development, and e-commerce. Before joining IV in 2010, he spent nine years in a variety of roles with Point B., Inc., including the last four as a managing director, and held previous leadership positions with AT&T, Accenture, SABRE, and Northrop-Grumman, among others.

Keith's family includes wife Monica and daughters Morgan and Brooke. He loves spending time with his family, traveling and has an avid interest in both playing and coaching soccer. He earned his bachelor's in mathematics from the University of Washington, and then his master's in applied mathematics from the University of Southern California.